Brownies

- 1 Preheat oven to 345°F convection bake or 360°F regular bake. Grease an 8-by-8 inch pan or line with parchment paper. Pour sugar into a medium size bowl and set aside. Then, in a microwave safe bowl, combine chocolate and 6 tablespoons of unsalted butter.

- 4 Pour batter into prepared pan. Spread evenly with spatula. Bake for 25 minutes, then turn the pan 180 degrees and bake for an additional 10 minutes. Let brownies cool for 30 minutes.

Caramel

- 2 Microwave on 50% power for 2 minutes or until melted, stopping to stir every 30 seconds. Remove from microwave and whisk chocolate and butter into sugar. Mixture will not be smooth. Whisk in eggs and vanilla until combined.

- 3 Using a rubber spatula, fold in gluten free oat flour and salt until glossy.

- 5 Spread sugar evenly in a small to medium size saucepan over medium heat. Let sugar melt (takes up to 5 minutes). Then, mix continuously with a wooden spoon.
- 6 Once the sugar transitions from clumps to a completely melted, light brown consistency, turn the stove down slightly and whisk in all 3 tablespoons of salted and unsalted butter.

- 7 Watch out for splattering, but do your best to whisk in the butter until the sugar and butter are completely combined.

- 8 Then, whisk in a splash of vanilla and slowly pour in heavy cream. Once again, be mindful of splattering as you whisk together all ingredients.

- 9 Leave caramel on low to medium heat for 30 seconds. If the caramel begins to turn a dark brown color, lower the heat. Finally, pour caramel into a heatsafe bowl and let cool for 10 minutes.

Assembly

Use spatula to evenly spread the caramel over the cooled brownies. Sprinkle coarse sea salt on top of brownies. Let caramel set for as long as your stomach will allow (preferably 30 minutes).
